

GIRL BROUGHT BACK TO FACE CHARGE OF FORGERY

Detective Returns With Mrs. Whitaker, Who Was Arrested in Charlotte, N. C.

TALKS FREELY TO POLICE

Fact Established That She Is Young Woman Who Was Rescued Recently From Death on Main Street by Patrolman Smith.

Detective Sergeant Kregel last night returned to Richmond with Mrs. Whitaker, alias Lillian, alias Ruth Freeman, alias Betha Harris, who was arrested in Charlotte, N. C., on a Richmond warrant charging her with forgery. The girl, who is nineteen years old, was delivered into the care of the police matron at the First Station.

It was definitely learned that she is the same girl who was saved from probable death on Main Street, when she was rescued by Patrolman Smith, who snatched her from the path of a runaway automobile at considerable risk of his own life. She admitted the fact, it was said, to the police when arrested.

The girl was not unwilling to talk of the various check operations for which she was arrested. She said that she was born in South Carolina and came to Richmond when she was fourteen years of age. For some time she worked in various places, and persons who several years ago purchased Christian Monitors from a little light-haired girl who regularly stood in front of the Mutual Building, will remember her. She was the girl, she continued to say, who was rescued in 1912, when she met Paul Whitaker, of Concord, N. C.

After some months of courtship she married Whitaker, and later went to North Carolina to live. Later they returned to Richmond, and some months ago Whitaker again returned to Carolina. His wife remained here, and it was during this time that she began forging checks and passing them.

There are said to be several charges which will be brought against Mrs. Whitaker, including forgery, passing forged checks, and receiving stolen goods. She is alleged to have passed a worthless check for $10 on the former and to have secured a $12.75 dress from the latter.

ELECTION RETURNS ARE VIEWED BY THOUSANDS

Huge Crowd Drawn by Quick Bulletin Service Supplied by The Times-Dispatch.

A GOOD-NATURED GATHERING

While Sentiment Appears to Be Divided, There Is No Rowdiness or Disorder, and Many Remain Until Last Return.

Jammed into one solid, compact mass of humanity, thousands of men and women stood in front of The Times-Dispatch Building on South Tenth Street last night and watched the election results flashed on a large canvas screen erected on the American National Bank Building, on the opposite side of the street.

Shortly before 7 o'clock the crowd began to gather. In less than an hour more than 1,000 persons were packed between the two big skyscrapers, and this number remained until after 10 o'clock, when the last bulletin was displayed, those having been replaced by late comers.

It was a well-mannered, happy crowd that enjoyed the hospitality of The Times-Dispatch. At no time was there noticeable that rough element which generally infests a big gathering, particularly an election crowd. It was just the reverse, and the bulletins were received almost in silence, although cheers and handclapping greeted many solid shots fired by the State-widens. The local option adherents occasionally gaven vent to their feeling, especially when the Richmond results were shown.

The bulletins were flashed BY BIG STEREOPTICON. The Times-Dispatch was favorably commented on. A large stereo machine had been installed in the building, and each bulletin was carefully typed out, making a clear, readable message, which was plainly visible to every person in the street. These messages poured in from every nook and corner of the State from the large corps of local correspondents maintained throughout Virginia by The Times-Dispatch.

The large crowd, while tightly jammed into a comparatively small space, was free from jostling, and everybody was good-natured and accommodating. Cheers there were few, but the multitude of voices rising in conversation during the intervals between bulletins resembled the roar of a small Niagara, and could be heard for several blocks.

The absence of traffic on the street, and the work of the police, added to the comfort of the spectators.

While the spectators were chiefly men and boys, the large number of women was one of the notable features of the gathering. They seemed, if possible, more eager than the men to learn the latest details, and generally lead in the applause.

The crowd, as far as feeling went, appeared to be about equally divided in sentiment, and the applause was about the same from each. Both sides, however, greeted the appearance of a bulletin showing Horner's Store, Chesterfield County, against Stateville by one vote, out of a total of seventeen with yells of laughter.

In addition to the bulletin service, The Times-Dispatch with its private telephone exchange proved one of the most popular mediums in the city for obtaining the latest news from the front. The operators were kept busy until an early hour this morning in answering inquiries, many of them coming from long distance points.

The clubs, theatres and other public places also exhibited the returns as received. A huge crowd also gathered in front of the American National Bank Building, and Grace Streets, to see returns flashed on a screen on a nearby store.

There were few persons, if any, in the city of Richmond and vicinity, who went to their beds last night as a result of the election. If they did, it was their own fault.

REVENUE CUTTER ABANDONED

SHATTLE, WASH., September 22.—The United States revenue cutter Tahoma, which struck a reef on Sunday, ninety miles west of Kiska Island, in the Aleutian group, has been abandoned, according to a cable dispatch received to-day from Seward, Alaska.

The steamer Mariposa, now at Seward, picked up a wireless message to this effect.

The Tahoma's crew probably has been taken off by the Japanese liner Tacoma Maru.

HAD PICKED UP CREW OF WRECKED STEAMER.

VALDEZ, ALASKA, September 22.—The revenue cutter Tahoma, wrecked near Kiska Island, had picked up the crew of a steamer wrecked on Souchi Islands in the Aleutians.

The name of the wrecked steamer is not known here.

GO HOME TO VOTE

While all of the State offices remained open for business yesterday, a holiday atmosphere pervaded the State Capitol and the Library Building. Judge R. R. Prentiss, president of the State Corporation Commission, who voted in Suffolk in the early morning, returned to the city in time to devote the greater part of election day to business, issuing the batch of certificates.

One of two clerks remained in each of the many State offices to transact business. The majority of the State officials and employees, however, were at their homes for the purpose of exercising the right of suffrage. Many of those living outside the city who were unable to leave their offices paired with other voters who held opposite views on prohibition and were willing to remain away from home and office.

Climate Failed; Medicine Effective

Sufferers from Tuberculosis often think that medicine will not help them. Fresh air, regular habits and good food are restoring health, but more is often needed. Many have been restored to health by Eckman's Alternative. Read this:

"Gentlemen: Through your instrumental aid I have been saved from a premature grave. On December 11, 1914, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia, which developed into Tuberculosis (bacilli were found). In February, 1915, I went to Fort Worth, Texas, and later to Canon City, Colorado. After being there two weeks my physician informed me that my case was hopeless. Three weeks later I returned home, weighing 103 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching this alive. On July 11, 1915, I began taking Eckman's wonderful remedy for Lung Trouble. Now I am stout and well and can do any kind of work about my grain elevator."

Union Dentists' Prices Not Advanced on Account of War

The prices of dentists' supplies, such as drugs, chemicals and some of the precious metals have advanced in price to a greater extent than most articles in general use, for instance, the alkaloidal drugs that are much used by dentists and physicians have advanced to nearly $7 per oz. Platinum, a metal much used in dentistry, especially for pins in teeth, is very much costlier than gold. We were very fortunate in having on hand a full stock of supplies, and 1,000 sets of teeth.
